Clay Classes at SPHDS

As an artist, I encourage my students to be artists too. My goal is for the students to express their imaginations and emotions in a tangible way. I expose the students to the many facets of clay, instructing them in the proper techniques. The clay is their tool for the realization of their imagination. Students are encouraged to use their imagination and day to day experiences for expression. They can create any project they desire, from decorative sculptures to functional pottery. Most importantly, I ensure that my students enjoy the clay: exploring and creating throughout the entire process. All projects are kiln fired and the students will be able to paint or glaze their projects.

Born in Ashkelon, Israel, Ilana was influenced by unique nature of her surroundings as well as the neighborhood artists of her local community (primarily by three ceramic artists in her immediate vicinity). On the peak of Mount Carmel at the Haifa University, Ilana received her BA in Hebrew and Biblical Literature. Prior coming to live in the US, Ilana had pursued a Masters Degree thesis in Biblical Art and Literature at Haifa and Tel Aviv universities. More information on the back.

Session One

Classes are from September 15th - December 8th

Mondays from 3:50-4:30 7 sessions

The fee is $133 - For all sessions, including all materials and kiln firing.

Please make payments to: Ilana Davis

Please note: 5 children minimum and 10 children maximum for this class
